4. PRESENTATIONS FROM REPRESENTATIVES OF LOCAL ORGANISATIONS

Ian Schofield – NPT Sergeant, Dorset Police

Dorset Police had recently employed additional officers, though their deployment remained unclear. Officer allocation was demand-led, based on the number of incidents. As Swanage experienced relatively low crime compared to other seaside towns, it currently had one Police Constable (PC) and three Police Community Support Officers (PCSOs).

Antisocial behaviour had declined in recent months, and it was anticipated that the Swanage Community Skatepark Project, along with the planned improvements, would further contribute to this reduction. A public engagement event was held at the skatepark on 1st June 2024.

A brief overview of 'Project Evolve' was provided, which brought together a number of areas of work with the common aims of:

- Continuing to improve police service by putting the public first
- Ensuring every penny of public money was spent wisely
- Making it easier for officers and staff to do an even better job

Police had aimed to visit crime reporters in person or, if unavailable, to make telephone contact within 12 hours. The rural crime management team had assisted with this process.

Concerns had been raised about a recent increase in shoplifting. Residents had been reminded that reporting all crimes was crucial, as police response depended on recorded incidents.
